

ABSTRACT

A video production switcher includes at least one multi-level effects generator having at least two keyers and video signal mixer. A digital video processor unit is associated with each of said at least two keyers, the digital video processor operable to generate at least a two-dimensional effect, such as an over-the-shoulder box effect.